Graduate fees, funding & scholarship search

The University makes every effort to provide a fees, funding and scholarship search facility that is helpful and reliable for prospective and current students. This search facility provides details of Oxford scholarships worth over £1,000 which require additional application materials or information to be submitted. However, the University cannot guarantee that the search facility will deliver a comprehensive list of these scholarships. You are therefore encouraged to undertake your own research into the range of potential scholarships and other funding for which you may be eligible. The University will not be liable for any errors or omissions in the fees, funding and scholarship search.

Funding

The University expects to be able to offer around 1,000 full or partial graduate scholarships across the collegiate University in 2022-23. You will be automatically considered for the majority of Oxford scholarships, if you fulfil the eligibility criteria and submit your graduate application by the relevant December or January deadline. Most scholarships are awarded on the basis of academic merit and/or potential.

For further details about searching for funding as a graduate student visit our dedicated Funding pages, which contain information about how to apply for Oxford scholarships requiring an additional application, details of external funding, loan schemes and other funding sources.
